

Thursday, January 22, 2026

Premium VITAL Series

Breathing was free.
Water was shared.
Scarcity changed the rules.
Life became negotiable.

Created by
Tetyana & Patrick Boëdec

Developed by
Monolith Production

© 2026 Tetyana & Patrick Boëdec. All rights reserved.

VITAL

LOGLINE

In a near future where clean air and drinkable water have become the scarcest resources on Earth, nations and corporations capable of purifying, storing, or producing them impose their conditions on the rest of the world. As survival shifts from a universal right to a negotiated privilege, humanity enters a new order where living depends less on citizenship than on access.

FORMAT

Social / Political Thriller

Serialized series

Season 1: 8 episodes

Episode length: 55 minutes

Language: English

Target: International / US premium platforms

TONE & DNA

Vital operates in a grounded, visceral register that blends the systemic realism of Children of Men, the geopolitical tension of Syriana, and the intimate human stakes of The Road stripped of post-apocalyptic spectacle.

The tone is tense, restrained, and relentlessly concrete. Dialogue is practical, often transactional. Conflict arises through access points: valves, quotas, permits, and emergency protocols. Violence is rare but absolute; the true pressure comes from rationing, denial, and delay. Survival is administrative.

VISION

Vital explores a fundamental inversion of civilization: when the elements required to stay alive are no longer guaranteed. As air and water become assets, governance shifts from law to allocation. The series examines how power consolidates not through ideology or force, but through control of the conditions that make life possible.

CORE MYTHOLOGY

Environmental collapse has rendered large regions unable to sustain breathable air or potable water. Advanced purification systems, atmospheric filters, and closed-loop water infrastructures become the backbone of survival.

Control is exercised through:

- production capacity
- storage and distribution networks
- emergency access protocols
- international dependency contracts

Rights are not revoked.

They are rendered conditional.

Breathing and drinking are no longer universal guarantees.

They are managed resources.

SERIES DYNAMICS

The narrative unfolds across purification hubs, border checkpoints, corporate command centers, and civilian zones under rationing. Characters include engineers, policymakers, distributors, families negotiating access, and officials enforcing thresholds they did not set.

Conflict is systemic and moral: deciding who receives uninterrupted supply, who receives limited access, and who is cut off. The system presents itself as rational, necessary, and temporary — even as dependency becomes permanent.

SEASON 1 — NARRATIVE ARC

Season 1 traces the consolidation of vital resource control:

- Escalation of environmental thresholds
- Emergency privatization of purification systems
- Introduction of access permits and quotas
- Growing dependency of non-producing regions
- Black-market circulation of air and water
- Recognition that scarcity has become a governance model

The season ends with a decisive shift: survival is no longer protected — it is administered.

WHY THIS SERIES / WHY NOW

As climate stress accelerates and resource inequality deepens, Vital reflects a future already emerging. It asks a direct, unsettling question: what happens to human rights when the right to breathe and drink must be negotiated?

It is not a story about collapse.

It is a story about controlled survival.